

THE IMPORTANCE OF LANGUAGES IN INTERNATIONAL ARBITRATION AND HOW THEY IMPACT PARTIES' DUE PROCESS RIGHTS

Sherlin Tung

ABSTRACT

This article will address the importance of language in international business transactions and how language, used in the various stages of such transactions and later, during the arbitration itself, plays a role in impacting a party's due process rights in international arbitration proceeding. The author first takes a look at the significance of language during the course of an international business transaction, the concept of due process in international arbitration and how the issue of language plays a role in a party's due process rights during an international arbitration proceeding.

· At the time of this article, Sherlin Tung was the Litigation and Arbitration Counsel for Semperit AG Holding, an international conglomerate specializing in rubber industrial products. Prior to Semperit, Sherlin worked as a Deputy Counsel with the ICC Court of Arbitration in both its Hong Kong and New York offices. Sherlin started her career in international arbitration when she worked under the direct supervision of Dr. Pierre A. Karrer. Sherlin is admitted to practice law in California (inactive status) and New York. She obtained her Masters of Law in International Commercial Arbitration from Stockholm University, a Juris Doctor from the University of San Diego School of Law and a Bachelor of Arts from the University of California Los Angeles where she had a triple major. The author can be reached at: sherlintung@gmail.com.

KEYWORDS: arbitrator, cross-border disputes, due process, equal treatment, negotiations international business transactions, language, New York Convention, procedural fairness, right to be heard